

School Age Weekly Notes!

Dear Parents,

Week of March 5, 2010

As we say welcome to March, warmer weather and spring, it means we are getting closer to spring break. With that being said please check the Spring Attendance survey posted on the parent table. We would like to know how many kids will attend so we can be properly staffed. As many of you know, the early bird registration was extended until Monday, March 15, 2010. Just a reminder, if you want to save $75 on this early registration you have to sign-up for at least four (4) weeks of the summer program. Please, if you have any questions, feel free to ask the teachers or the director.

THIS WEEK'S HAPPENINGS:

- We celebrated Dr. Seuss's Birthday on March 2, by making hats and Grinch masks...and read our favorite Dr. Seuss books to promote our literacy/ language skills.
- Coloring Snow: We brought in some snow from outside and put different colors into layers; the kids enjoyed the sensory and science activity.
- We also made green play dough in honor of Dr. Seuss's birthday.
- Kids also enjoyed coloring wood shapes and painting stone ladybugs.
- This week's science project was Bouncing Raisins: the gas, carbon dioxide that forms when you add vinegar to the baking soda forms bubbles that carry the raisins upwards and they fall when the bubbles are released.
- We had a few gym days this week due to the weather. The kids enjoyed playing basketball, jumping rope, Chinese rope, cheerleading and many other different activities.
- Our Cooking Project was a fruit salad. Yummy, yummy Fruit salad. This was a very fun and healthy project.

HAVE A GREAT WEEKEND!
